

09/09 FOR FASD!

International Day of Awareness

September 9 is International Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) Awareness Day.

The ninth day of the ninth month symbolises the nine months of pregnancy. Around the world, people raise awareness to support those with FASD.

- Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) is a lifelong disability that affects the brain and body of people who were exposed to alcohol in the womb. Each person with FASD has both strengths and challenges and will need special supports in many different parts of their daily lives.
- There is NO safe level of alcohol to drink when pregnant. Tapu whilst hapū!
- Our vision of healthy communities is compromised by the pro-drinking environment in Aotearoa NZ – alcohol is heavily marketed, readily available and sold at low prices.
- Based on international studies, 3-5% of tamariki born every year in Aotearoa could be born with FASD (around 1800-3000) and up to 60,000 children under 18 years old may be affected.
- Support for individuals with FASD in Aotearoa is very limited and many whānau face personal, financial and mental health problems as a result.
- The behavioural symptoms of FASD can look like wilful and intentional – but these are symptoms of brain differences, not poor parenting.

Ma te kaha o te kaha, te aratohu me te whakaaro nui, ka tupu te tipu me te whakatutuki i te hunga ki te FASD.

With shared strength, guidance and wisdom,
those with FASD can grow and achieve.
